Winchell On Broadway

BROADWAY HEARTBEAT

Yes, there are some who bear the Winter's wind
Nor whimper at the lashing of the gale.
And leave their vain and childish dreams behind
To face a world where dreams are bound to fail . . .
And there are others, petulant and weak.
Who strive to pluck the stars from out the sky
Who cannot name the misty goal they seek
And so are ever lost . . . of these am I!

A flowered dress . . . a whisper in the night.
The scent of roses in a lonely room.
These are the ancient symbols of delight.
These are the certain heritage of doom.

But roses fade against the winds of time . . .
And love is but a ripple—from a rhyme. —Don Wahn

Lippmann Today and Tomorrow

MR. TRUMAN has been seeking advice on how to protect himself against the snares and snarls of his office. He needs it. His unpretentiousness has protected him from the consequences of blunders which would have shaken to its foundations the administration of a stronger president. But he cannot draw too lavishly upon the fund of good will and good nature, of charity and chivalry, which the press and the informed public have, in altogether exceptional degree, felt that they must for compassionate and patriotic reasons accord him.

The public interest also demands protection. It needs to be protected against recurrent blunders like the Wallace imbroglio, the entanglement with Mr. Churchill's speech at Fulton, the Crowley affair terminating British lend-lease, and the Tiptonville remarks about the atomic bomb. Mistakes like these are too expensive, and they are wholly unnecessary.

They are due to one very simple but fundamental misconception: Mr. Truman has not realized that the presidency is not a man in the White House. The presidency is an institution, a department of government, the central organ of government. No man, however big, can administer the office of president as the personal enterprise of himself and his cronies. The less he is a big man, the less he can rely upon hunches and chitchat. The more he must fall back upon the organized decision of a staff and of his responsible advisers.

* * *

SINCE MR. TRUMAN'S troubles have developed out of his press conferences, it is but natural that he should be hoping to cure his troubles by reforming his press conferences. There is little doubt that he ought to reform them. As now conducted, they are as unsatisfactory as they are dangerous. The president is frequently asked questions which he is unprepared to answer. He may catch the point of the question. Or he may miss the point. He can then give no answer. Or he can make a bull guess. Or he can give the wrong answer. This system is bound to produce the results it so frequently does produce: [illegible] misinformation and misunderstanding, but confusion and consternation throughout the world.

Yet the remedy is [illegible] the hand the public must know what the government is doing, and the press must be enabled to report it. On the other hand the president cannot [illegible] that [illegible] answer to questions fired at him unexpectedly out of a crowd of newspaper men, especially when there will always be some more interested in heckling him than in reporting him. The remedy is to make it a rule that on matters of high policy [illegible] the armed forces [illegible] should be submitted in writing and answered when the president has had time to have prepared a considered reply.

There may be some who will say that Mr. Truman cannot do this without confessing that he is less able to cope with the press than was President Roosevelt. But [illegible] he is less able [illegible] less brief to admit it [illegible] Moreover as one of the [illegible] newspaper men who has been at presidential press conferences over a period of 30 years I should like to say that even if Mr. Truman could imitate Roosevelt he ought not to try.

* * *

THE NOTION seems to exist that the fine flower of a free press can be enjoyed only in these so-called [illegible] uninformed and unconsidered answers to unprepared and unconsidered questions—and even then there is a smell of censorship and unfreedom and regimentation in a system of carefully prepared questions answered when the president is able to answer them. But why? Because, I suppose, the delayed answer, though on the whole it would more certainly disclose the facts on the question at issue, would be ghost-written and would, therefore, conceal from the public the quality of the man who is president.

That is the only real objection I can think of. It can be met. Questions of high policy that concern the security and vital interests of the nation should be given prepared answers after due notice. There would remain the whole field of domestic politics and internal policy in which we can still exercise that special freedom, unique among the democracies but well worth its cost, of compelling our men to appear before us as they are when they are unprotected and naked.

BUDGET PUZZLE

Officials Contradict Each Other on Question.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Can a budget be in balance by the end of a fiscal year if there is a deficit of $1,900,000,000 for that year as a whole?

That is the question posed today by latest statements of President Truman, who talked of being in balance, and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, who spoke of the $1,900,000,000 deficit.

President Truman told newsmen yesterday — remarking that he also had said it a week earlier — that he was trying to balance the budget and that the budget will be in balance by the end of the year.

Horvitz added that Mansfield talent will be developed and given a major part in the proposed station's programs.

Asked by counsel for the Unity corporation, seeking an FM permit here, whether he owns an interest in the Erie, Pa., Dispatch-Herald, S. A. Horvitz, publisher of The News-Journal and vice president and secretary of The Journal company, replied: "I certainly do not. I have no interests in Erie, and I don't know where that idea could have originated."

Horvitz was then asked if his attorney owned stock in the Erie paper.

"I believe Judge Hertz does, but his business dealings are entirely his own," Horvitz replied.

Edward Lamb, president of the Unity corporation, owns an interest in two newspapers in Erie.

MAJOR HOWARD CAREY

A refuge for the needy and a guide for the wayward is Mansfield's Salvation army.

Transients are given food and lodging. Families are taken in on short notice when misfortune crosses their paths and former prisoners are given a new start in material and spiritual gifts.

Major Howard Carey, who took over the directorship of the Salvation Army only four weeks ago, already has observed the benefits of the agency.

"We had a typical case last month," Major Carey began. "A man who had just been released from jail came to me. He wanted material help.

"I felt he needed spiritual help, too. I prayed with him and urged him to stand on his own feet. Then I gave him the material help.

He's now working in the city and has become self-supporting."

Major Carey now receives reports from three ex-prisoners who have been paroled to the Salvation Army until their final pardon.

At present 15 blind persons, ranging in age from 11 to 65, are learning crafts in the blind school which meets each Friday from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. These persons are also given a free dinner by the Salvation Army.

Last year the Red Feather agency handed out 1,166 garments, 114 pair of shoes, and 65 pieces of furniture and gave 559 meals and 373 lodgings to 551 transients.

In addition, the organization counseled 565 families on personal and financial problems.

Dr. White will deliver the regular sermon tomorrow morning but during his absence the following two Sundays, his pulpit will be occupied on Oct. 20 by Chaplain Martin W. Wappner of the Ohio State Reformatory and on Oct. 27 by Rev. F. D. Henderson, a missionary on furlough from Assiut, Egypt, now residing in Wooster.

Up and Down The Street

NO 'CATCH'—

Even when they get something "free," Mansfielders are skeptical. This morning, 100 Senior high school girls were assigned to 11 of the city's busiest corners to distribute Community Fund red feathers ABSOLUTELY FREE as a promotion stunt for the Fund drive Monday. But Mansfielders couldn't believe it at first. Scores of the girls were offered money, which they didn't take. Other pedestrians explained that they didn't have any change or that they had made their contribution to the fund campaign.

"Finally, they caught on when they noticed everyone wearing red feathers, and accepted them gratefully, Mrs. Richard Sturges, leader of the girls, commented.

NO HOLIDAY FOR THEM—

The courthouse was nearly deserted today with most offices closed in observance of Columbus day. Common pleas court, however, operated for a short session in which motions and contempt charges were heard. Today's session was scheduled before it was known that the building would be closed and Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch thought it would be easier to hold court than cancel the cases scheduled.

On the lower floor three workers from the Dupli-Print Service were working in the board of elections office making a list of voters registered this year to be printed and delivered to the board before the Nov. 5 election.

The courthouse office of the sheriff's department was also open.

HANDLEY SEES RISE UNTIL JANUARY 1ST

USES Reports 16,563 Now on Jobs in 34 Area Stores, Industries.

Employment in the Mansfield area is expected to continue on the up-swing for the next few months, a report just compiled by C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield branch office of the United States Employment Service said today.

The report shows an indicated net gain of 2,920 workers for the period of Oct. 1 to Jan. 1 among 34 business and industrial establishments in the Mansfield and Shelby area.

Total employment in those establishments on Oct. 1 was 16,563 persons. The report shows that the total expected demand on next Jan. 1 will amount to 19,483 workers.

Handley's recent statement that Mansfield area industries were turning to women to fill their labor shortage gap was also borne out by the report which shows an indicated increase of 513 female workers for the period from Oct. 1 to Jan. 1 among those 34 industries reporting.

* * *

Unskilled Men Needed.

The office had a total of 878 orders for workers on file Oct. 1 and of this number 80 per cent or 702 orders were for unskilled workers, Handley said.

During September the U.S.E.S. office sent out 1552 workers to Mansfield area business and industrial establishments, he reported.

However, not all of that number were placed in jobs, he said.

On the other side of the ledger the office had applications for work from 600 persons in their active file on Oct. 1. This was a sizeable decline from last February when there were 852 applications in that file, Handley said.

Dramatizing Fall Vegetables

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS

(Associated Press Food Editor)

COMES autumn, with crisp air and brilliant colors and sharpened appetites. We dress up our dining tables with bright flowers, and perhaps a little more formality than we've practiced during the summer. Now's the time for a beautiful Irish linen cloth and your best china and silver.

And meat is scarce, so what do we serve for our dressed up dinner? There are many richly-flavored fall and winter vegetables which answer that question nobly. Here are some recipes:

Stuffed Red Cabbage.

1 large head red cabbage
2 tablespoons vinegar
Salt, pepper
2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine
1 pound ground beef and veal
1 onion, finely minced
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 egg
2 tablespoons bread crumbs (or cornflakes, rolled to crumbs)

Trim off several outer leaves and save. Cut center from head of red cabbage, leaving about a two inch rim. Wash cabbage well. Cover cabbage (both center and head) with boiling salted water. Add vinegar. Boil five minutes. Drain (saving water in pot). Chop the center piece quite fine. Melt butter or margarine in large heavy frying pan. Add ground meat and onion. Stir over low heat until brown. Add the chili powder, egg, crumbs and chopped cabbage. Mix well. Fill hollow in head of cabbage. Cover with the outside leaves (saved for this purpose). Return to the pot of boiling water. Cover and simmer 20 minutes, until cabbage is tender. Remove from water. Drain. Remove covering leaves and arrange on serving platter. Surround with accompanying vegetables such as potatoes and crisp uncooked vegetables.

Riced Rutabaga with Potatoes.

½ pound rutabaga
½ teaspoon caraway seeds (tied in cheesecloth)
2 cups boiling water
1 pound potatoes
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
Butter or fortified margarine
Paprika

Scrub, peel and cube the rutabaga (yellow turnips). Add boiling water, salt, caraway seeds. Cover and start cooking while scrubbing and scraping the potatoes. When turnips are partially cooked, add potatoes, whole or cut into halves. Cover and cook until tender. Uncover, turn heat high and cook off all extra water. Shake pan over heat to dry out turnips. Remove caraway seeds. Press potatoes and rutabaga together through ricer directly into serving dish or platter, stopping to season layers with dots of butter or margarine, paprika and pepper. Serves four.

Turnip Cups.

4 large tender white turnips
2 or 3 small white onions or 4 ounce can mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Wash turnips. Pare about a third of the way down from stem end. Hollow out centers and cut centers into very small cubes. Parboil turnip cups and cubes along with onions, if they are used, in boiling, salted water, uncovered, 8 to 10 minutes or until tender. Drain. Melt butter or margarine. Add onions or mushrooms and saute over low heat until delicately browned Add turnip cubes and parsley. Mix and fill the turnip cups. Top with a dot of extra butter or margarine.

Barclay On Bridge

COLUMBUS didn't need any gadgets like the Blackwood convention to aid him in his discoveries. Neither do some of the ablest natural bidders. But plenty of average bidders find it invaluable to them as an aid to finding out whether or not it is advisable to reach out for a slam. Its main operation consists in keeping them out of a small slam when the opponents hold two aces, or out of a grand slam when one ace is held adversely.

In a big social duplicate, several of the finest pairs bid this deal as shown in Table 1, and several as in Table 2—the pairs using the Blackwood convention.

At one other table, the only pair which missed the slam began the bidding as in Table 1 and went on the same excepting that South passed the 5-Hearts bid. His excuse, when the 12 tricks had been taken, was that "I didn't have a strong hand, one which looked like a slam." Of course he didn't have a strong hand; but he did have one which was relatively strong, considering that North could jump that way on his first rebid, and then carry him all the way to five-odd when he heard the hearts for the first time. Any post-graduate bidder should have taken the chance, especially since he had an ace. North's going to five had told him he considered he lacked not more than two top tricks and that he expected to furnish enough trick-takers after South got the lead.

This deal, however, well illustrates how the stronger and more experienced player should defer to his partner. South had wanted to use the Blackwood convention, but North refused. He would have assured himself a better partner in South if he had done what the lesser player wished—which generally pays.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

YOUNG Connelly, whose father had been hanged as a horse thief, experienced a little trouble in filling out an application blank for life insurance.

The cause of his mother's death was easy: double pneumonia. It took several minutes, however, before he found the proper words to explain the old man's demise: "My father was taking part in a heavily attended public function when the platform gave way."

* * *

The house surgeon of a London hospital was attending to the injuries of a woman whose arm had been severely bitten. As he was dressing the wound, he frowned, and remarked, "I can't imagine what sort of creature must have bitten you. This is too small for a horse's bite, and too large for a dog's."

"Oh, sir," explained the patient, "it wasn't an animal at all; it was another lydy!"

Walter Pater was once invited to admire a hideous wedding present, bestowed upon his niece. The great aesthete shuddered slightly, and remarked, "Very handsome. Very decorative. Very expensive, I'm sure. But for heaven's sake, don't let them make any more of them!"

Dorothy Kilgallen—

Jottings in Pencil—From Catalina Island comes the report that Lana Turner and Rory Calhoun, with some of the peo [illegible] Jean Hersholt is hospitalized for minor surgery . . . Ginger Rogers' brainy mama, Lila, is in hiding at the Drake Hotel, where she is whipping together a book for Random House . . . It makes one short of breath, this keeping up The new deal is fresh, hot egg the time. For instance, it's Marie Allison, rumored a bandleader's big moment, who is now squired steadily by Howard Hughes. And it's Donaldson Award winner Susan Douglas who is getting long-distance phone calls from Tony Martin.

The reporters in "The Front Page" are now eating a new brand of sandwiches nightly. Benny Baker complained, with considerable justification, at having to douse a lot of ketchup (as his role requires on sandwiches made of strawberry jam—and then eat the mixture. The new deal is fresh, hot egg sandwiches . . . Betty Lawford, who has just completed "Devil Thumbs a Ride" in Hollywood for RKO, will be back in a legit show on Broadway this Fall . . . Toots Shor gifted his petite Mrs. with a ceiling-high orchid tree on the occasion of the birth of her second baby, Kerry Frances, last week . . . Studio biggies have been answering those "What About Sonny Boy?" queries by saying the song was cut from "The Jolson Story" because of length. But the truth is that because so many comedy acts have satirized the song since it was introduced, the executives decided to eliminate the song from the biography for fear audiences would howl instead of sob when "Al" rendered it.

Katina Paxinou, who sailed for London Thursday, told friends she expected to return in two months to appear opposite James Mason in his first American film. Katina seemed very positive that Mason's debut on these shores (about which there has been much speculation, since he is choosy about vehicles) would be in Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra," heretofore considered too hot for Hollywood to handle. . . . Howard Hughes' best friends solemnly assure listeners that "The Outlaw" is "the worst picture ever made" but will make millions and millions. One observer describes it as "terrible in an amusing way."

What WON'T the sentimentalists dream next? The other day at Gilmore's, songstress Janie Ford, a Technicolor dreamboat of a redhead fresh from Texas, started a whole new thing when she flaunted a gold bracelet made entirely of linked hearts — the hearts being decorated with, of all things, impressions of the lovesick donor's fingerprints . . . I can think of two sisters who owe their biggest screen breaks to getting pushed around by drunks. One is Doris Dowling, the belle of the bar in "Lost Weekend," who winds up loaning Ray Milland moolah and being stood up by that eminent stiff. Now the other Dowling sister, Constance, plays the wife of the current Big Booze and Snooze delineator—Dan Duryea—in "Black Angel." Doris got off soft, compared to what happens to poor Connie . . . Margaret Whiting and Buff Cobb, both reported engaged to Bill Eythe, are nevertheless good friends. While shopping the other day Margaret suddenly said to Buff, "I gave you my promise, I'll sing at your wedding to Bill."

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, October 13.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of an exceptionally lively state of affairs, with the energies, faculties and ambitions keyed to high performance. It is a time to aim at advanced goals, to initiate new projects and to secure the solid support of those in high places who may be definitely impressed by progressive ideas or audacious propositions. Present original ideas but use good judgment.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of an interesting, eventful and progressive year, in which fresh ideas may attract the hearty support of those in influence and financial standing. These may be stimulated by novelty, new techniques and ambitious projects if such be developed on sound and workable premises, well organized and practical. Keep alert to confusion or distorted mental slants. Be straightforward.

A child born on this day will be endowed with original and ingenious ideas and plans and has the practical constructive ability to win support from influential sources.

Mansfield News-Journal
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1946

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember that it's time for the fall check-up of your car.

Little did the writer of Old Mother Hubbard realize that her pathetic plight would sometime become quite common.

From Cape Cod comes report of the largest cash crop of cranberries in history—but what good are cranberries without sugar?

Christopher Columbus Opened the Way

ALL RIGHT, then, if you want to be technical about it.

Christopher Columbus DIDN'T "discover" America, if "discovery" is taken to mean that he was the first person ever to learn about there being a Western Hemisphere.

In fact both North and South America were considerably populated long before Columbus was born, and the people on this side of the world were quite well satisfied with themselves—and with their → own ideas of "progress"—centuries before they were brought into contact with European "civilization."

It was the venturesome voyages of Columbus, however, that gave the Old World its first real knowledge of this rich land beyond the seas, and led the way to later exploration, conquest, colonization and development of vast natural resources.

Whoever those earlier voyagers may have been, or however this hemisphere came to have been first inhabited, it is quite proper that the honor of leadership in opening this part of the world to the betterment it has since enjoyed continue to go to Christopher Columbus—and that this annual observance of Discovery day be dedicated to his memory.

Mansfield's Teachers Are Underpaid

INDICATION of recognition of the importance of providing funds from which to pay higher salaries to Mansfield public school teachers is seen in the action by seven Parent-Teacher associations in not only endorsing the proposed three-mill tax levy but also contributing $150 for use in the campaign to acquaint all Mansfielders with the urgency of this need.

Frequently PTA groups are thought of as primarily interested in seeing that the teacher treats little Johnnie and Susie right in such things as grades in arithmetic, spelling, and the like.

Actually, however, these parents, by voting contributions to help in the campaign for the tax levy, said, in effect, that they are not only interested in their children but in their teachers as well.

These 950 PTA members who attended the seven meetings a few nights ago, voted as they did because they realized that if teachers are to "do right" by school children, the parents of those children must stand ready to "do right" by the teachers.

They realize that Mansfield schools, in the years to come, can be only as good as their poorest teachers, and, more immediately, that only with a salary schedule high enough to be competitive with other comparable cities, can Superintendent W. L. Miller hope to attract to Mansfield such well qualified teachers as the children of this progressive community deserve.

It may be hoped that by personal efforts, aided by the funds which they have contributed, members of PTA groups will succeed in making all voters conscious of the importance of favoring the tax levy.

Housing Shortage Penalizes Children

THE BIGGEST real problem in the United States today is that of providing decent living quarters for millions of people who are without homes, or who are getting along temporarily by doubling up with relatives, to the probable dissatisfaction of all concerned.

The plight of children, under such circumstances, is most lamentable. Thousands of them lack space to play, and many, especially in the larger cities, do not have a comfortable or healthful place in which to sleep. Their quarters are too cramped both indoors and outdoors. A recent report from one city told of a mother, grandmother and two-year-old girl walking about the city for hours seeking a place to sleep, and finally finding refuge in a police station. They were decent and respectable people, but as in a famous example of sacred history, "there was no room for them in the inn."

Such situations are inevitable in thousands of cases, perhaps, in the early stages of disbanding armies; but surely it should not last so long and impose hardship on so many people. Children particularly should be properly cared for—no matter whose children they are.

Small Town Has Halloween Plan

A SMALL TOWN once had an idea for beating the problem of Halloween rowdyism. The idea was so successful that this year on the holiday Anoka, Minn., will hold its twenty-fifth Halloween festival, and the civic leaders will be surprised if they wake up to as much as a soaped window the next day.

The Anoka carnival is so much fun, with so much happening to fill all the time from six to midnight on Halloween night, that the youngsters are too busy to run wild. A costume parade, street dance, vaudeville acts, bobbing for apples and a pie-eating contest are the chief events of the evening in Anoka.

Family Halloween parties given with the same aim are a help, and when a whole neighborhood or town gets behind a carnival, it's bound to provide a good celebration and discourage the traditional destructive practices.

Maybe here's why a shoe shine costs more nowadays . . . sign posted in a "shoeshine parlor" out in California announces: "Pedal habiliments artistically lubricated and illuminated with ambidextrous facility for the infinitesimal remuneration of 20 cents per operation."

Thomas Kennedy, an official of the United Mine Workers, has an idea that John L. Lewis would make a good secretary of state—and if the idea is to "get tough" with anybody John L. may be the very man for the job.

An aluminum "slumber board" is on the market, which, it is claimed, "will give more relaxation, better and sounder sleep than the best inner spring mattress"—which seems to justify the Missouri "show me" attitude.

A new dance is announced, "the Truman Bounce," and the Kansas City Star assumes it will consist of "two steps to the right, a bow to the left, and a bit of old-fashioned hesitation."

It is being noticed that rare roast beef is even rarer now.

The Mutiny at Sea

COLUMBUS

A strange thing happened that night at sea,
The needle was off a whole degree.
The first mate muttered. The admiral gazed
At swells that were oddly thick and glazed.
In dawn's first trembling the mutineers cried:
"Throw the Genoese over the side!
He has sailed us into the devil's morass."
True enough, each wave was matted with grass.
But the admiral pointed; queer birds winged the sky.
"Sail," he commanded, "from whence they fly."

Dark again! Night again! Men full of fright.
"Have you heard? The admiral now sees a light!"
"A light? It is moonglow affecting his head,
Or the devil's own torch luring us to the dead."
Another night! Dark again! West looms the glare.
The scaredest of seamen can see it is there.
The Pinta is firing a shot from her bow.
"Land! We have found it. No doubt of it now!"

Today the queen's banner floats on the breeze.
The admiral prays—down on his knees.
He is an odd one, this bold Genoese.
His compass goes crazy. He sails by the birds.
He puts down a mutiny with a few words.
He is a bold one, this odd Genoese,
A master of men and a master of seas.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Oct. 12, 1926.

Discovery day observance was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, with dinner-meeting at Elks home.

Miss Marcile Miller and Anthony Amicon were married at St. Peter's Catholic church.

First of Y. W. C. A. advisors' conferences was held, with Mrs. George C. Smith as chairman.

Davis-Lannard insurance agency was opened in the Bowers building.

"Dusty" Miller, Wilmington humorist, was entertainer at Rotary club meeting held at Westbrook Country club.

Attorney and Mrs. John F. Kramer received cablegram telling of their daughter Helen's safe arrival in France where she went for special studies.

Miss Ellena Percy returned to Bowling Green college after visiting her parents here.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

America was discovered on October 12, 1492. At two o'clock in the morning, a sailor aboard the Pinta sighted land. He was rewarded with a sum of money equal to one hundred dollars.

Dave Boone Says:

NEW YORK'S city council has officially declared the meat shortage "all due to a giant conspiracy by the cattlemen." What I'd like to have in this instance is some evidence that at any time in his life any member of the council ever sold anything deliberately at a loss.

* * *

This conspiracy charge is being made in lots of places but it would stand up more if those making it had any record for philanthropy.

* * *

I ain't had any red meat in a long time and I'm pretty sore about it but I think the Republicans like meat as well as the Democrats and that the same instincts run a cattleman that run most folks.

* * *

Gosh, if they keep building up this notion that men from the cattle country are all conspirators we will be hissing Gene Autry and mobbing cowboys.

Editor News-Journal:

Last Monday, while downtown shopping, I noticed that Mansfield has changed to a dirty, dingy, cluttered city, with all kinds of paper thrown on the sidewalks, bits of broken glass and whatnot

Some buildings also look rundown, with dirty windows that are not kept clean just cluttered

Once Mansfield was known for its polished look and clean streets, but not anymore Maybe if city officials and everyone would work together Mansfield could be made to look clean and beautiful again.

Federal Seizure of Meat Urged As 'Shortage' Becomes 'Famine'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A HURRICANE swirled furiously out of the Caribbean toward Florida, petered out before it hit the coast, doing slight damage to battened-down resorts and a bumper $150,000,000 citrus fruit crop. The 150-mile-an-hour winds that lashed the Gulf of Mexico dwindled to gusts of 50 miles or so as the storm swept inland over Tampa and veered north to die in Georgia and South Carolina.

Miraculously spared the fury of a tropic storm, the country nevertheless was engulfed in a gale of protest over the snarl of postwar reconversion, industrial bottlenecks, rising price spirals and a maddening meat famine.

Housewives from coast to coast were standing in line before butcher shops, sometimes for hours.

Throughout the land even black market meat was scarce as the flow of cattle to slaughter houses dwindled.

In northern states, motorcades flocked across the Canadian border to fill up on succulent chops and steaks at prices lower than U S. ceilings.

Yet there were plenty of U. S. cattle on the hoof—81,000,000 head as compared with 74,000,000 for the 1934-39 years. Livestock simply was not coming in off the range, the farm and the feedlot. Packers were not packing

The New York City Council with shipments of western meat to the metropolitan area only 20 per cent of normal, formally called on the president to declare a national meat emergency and inaugurate federal seizure of meat wherever it could be found for public consumption. The council called for importation of Argentine beef with temporary waiving of all duties.

Meanwhile the war department disclosed that it was negotiating with Britain for the "loan" of 10,000 tons of beef for American troops in the European and Pacific theaters. Under the agreement, the army would repay the meat, pound for pound, prior to February 28.

At Home

Records, Good and Bad.

This fall has been a record one, both good and bad, for aviation. Three weeks ago a Navy twin-engine patrol bomber flew 11,237 miles from Australia to Columbus, Ohio, setting a world non-stop record Last week, an Army B-29 soared from Hawaii over Arctic wastes to Cairo, a distance of 10,925 miles. Also within the past month, Newfoundland was the scene of two plane crashes at Gander and Stephenville The latter took 39 lives, worst disaster in commercial aviation history.

The Pacusan Dreamboat had been stripped even of de-icing equipment to carry a heavier fuel load. The plane was the most heavily loaded Superfortress ever to take off when it lifted 74 tons, more than half of it 1,300 gallons of gasoline. By the end of the trip it had exhausted all but 400 gallons

In Washington, Gen. Carl Spaatz, AAF commander, declared the hop proved the feasibility of polar flight by properly equipped aircraft and had given valuable information on problems of navigation, engineering, communications, weather, fuel consumption and physical endurance.

Housing Program Lags.

The government, anxious to speed home building before winter slows outdoor construction, tried to push veterans housing program by raising OPA ceilings on some lumber mill work and making all surplus war building materials available to veterans housing contractors before December 1.

Far more drastic steps are necessary, however, to break supply bottlenecks, says the National Association of Home Builders. It asserts widespread shortages have placed the entire veterans program in jeopardy and blames too-low price ceilings for manufacturers, lack of essential ingredients and improper distribution as primary causes of the snarl.

Latest reports of Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt tend to bear this out.

Wyatt tightened government control over lumber by ruling that beginning November 1 saw mills must honor priority claims from dealers supplying home builders. The priority chain now ends with dealers and protests have been made that much lumber has been going into commercial and other non-residential construction by purchase at the mills.

Dangerous Gridiron.

Football is a tough, bruising game; without proper training and equipment it can be dangerous as a gang fight. Even with all safeguards accidents do occur. Research has shown, however, that fatalities are almost unknown among the professionals, rare in college, most common in high school and sandlot games.

The death of Henry Frnka, Jr., 17-year-old son of the Tulane University grid coach, after a Tulsa, Okla., high school game raised to six the number of fatal accidents so far this season.

In the last 15 years, fatalities dropped from 31 directly attributable to gridiron accidents in 1931 to six in 1945. In 1938 there were 29 fatal accidents, although only 16 were found to have been caused directly by the sport.

This year, five of the victims were high school boys, one a college student.

Doctor for Dare County.

The wartime draft of physically-fit scientific students and teachers will cause many a shortage of doctors in communities across the land until medical and scientific schools can fill the three-year gap. One exists now in Buxton, Dare County, N. C. named after Virginia Dare, the first English child born in America.

Buxton, a fishing and Coast Guard community of 2,500 on Cape Hatteras, will find a home for its doctor, guarantee his practice and provide a modern infirmary ready for use. The nearest hospital, now, is at Elizabeth City, 120 miles away by car, when the road is usable The boat trip is around five hours.

Abroad

Conference Near End.

The Paris peace conference went into day and night sessions as delegates of the 21 victor nations sought to wind up treaties for five former German satellites before October 15 in order not to conflict with opening of the United Nations General Assembly in New York on October 23.

Amid the discordant clash of majority and minority opinion, Premier Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa appealed for tolerance and understanding among delegates. Speaking as a man who had seen peace striven for before and missed, Smuts warned that a cleavage between Slavs and western powers, unless checked, might make the conference an "overture to bigger struggles to come."

To speed up action, the conference adopted Big Four recommendations limiting debate over the Italian treaty to three days and one day each for the other four, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland.

International Bank.

Soviet interest in economic collaborations seems to have dwindled as Soviet diplomatic policy has veered off from that of Britain and the United States. Experts now hold little hope of Russian entry into the $15,000,000,000 World Fund and Bank before the December 31 deadline.

Spokesman for Crooner Frank Sinatra, separated from his wife, Nancy: "Frankie has had an awful lot of career for one man. It has prevented him from having a normal home life. But I think they'll get it straightened out."

Russia's foreign trade is small and her currency stable. She would not need the fund's loans of foreign exchange to any great extent.

The bank, however, could provide reconstruction loans which Russia needs. But Russia cannot join the bank without entering the fund That would mean putting up $2,400,000,000, to be divided equally between the bank and fund. And as long as Russia remains outside, she can preserve secrecy about her gold reserves.

Time Stands Still.

The world may be on the threshold of the atomic age but negotiations for ransom of five American fliers reportedly enslaved by savage Lolo tribesmen after wartime crashes in western China are proceeding in age-old fashion.

An American army lieutenant colonel, a missionary and two assistants set out on a dangerous four-day trek west of Sichang to inspect wreckage of a long-lost B-29 from which three bodies have been recovered.

Gen. Ho-Kow-kwang sent a runner to the distant Lolo village of Mouli near the border of Tibet to check rumors of American captives there. It will be a month before he returns.

ODD FACT

About 60 per cent of the world's population over 10 years of age cannot read or write, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Thomas L. Stokes

California's Popular Governor Earl Warren.

SACRAMENTO—California has one of the most talked-about figures politically in the nation—Gov. Earl Warren.

He earned enough attention in his first two years as governor to be keynote speaker at his party's 1944 convention and to be sought after as vice presidential nominee by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

He gained credit as a shrewd politician when he refused to accept that bid. He foresaw accurately what was going to happen in the fourth Republican attempt to beat Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Now he is enjoying a new blaze of political glory by his amazing feat of winning both Republican and Democratic nominations for a second term as governor in the primary.

This shook the Democratic party in this state, once so triumphant in Mr. Roosevelt's tenure of office, so that it is today shattered and demoralized.

I asked him what everybody asks, about the 1948 Republican presidential nomination. He smiled patiently across the big desk in his modernistic office at the capitol here.

"I don't want any job in Washington. It's hard for people to understand that and believe it, but it's true. My job is here." Then he talked enthusiastically about his state.

It's the joyous talk of pleased surprise. A year ago Governor Warren and others here had gloomy forebodings. None has materialized. None of the gloomy visions of widespread plant shutdowns, except for shipbuilding and some airplane curtailment; no hordes of unemployed.

To the contrary, nearly all industry is doing better than ever. Many new industries have started. Instead of an exodus from the state, there is a steady immigration. California's population is bigger than ever.

Despite his keen interest in California, it is natural for people to talk of prospects of a call to still higher office, for the Republican party is looking for a man—and a vote-getter, such as he is. So outside visitors question those who have observed his career closely. What about him? Is he presidential timber? You get varying answers.

On the record he is in the progressive Republican tradition, perhaps with some modification here and there. But he has had trouble getting his progressive program through the legislature.

His critics make much of his failure with the legislature. Some claim this shows ineptness. Others complain that his progressivism is not too deep. It is these who insist that he in anxious to become president, and that he is playing a cagey game.

This writer may be naive but the governor always has been convincing in his frankness about his personal desires politically. He made it plain to newspapermen at the Hershey, Pa. governors' conference in 1944, that he would not accept the vice presidential nomination. And he meant what he said.

There is, always, of course, the "draft" which might come in his case for either the presidential or vice-presidential nomination. No man can turn that down.

It is human for a political leader to think of that, for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948 looks now like a ticket that would bring the prize.

Governor Warren is in the picture, whatever his personal desires.

Considering Harry Truman as President.

WASHINGTON—The loud outcry against President Truman exceeds anything we have heard in a long time. It may be even louder and angrier than the barrages directed at FDR in the long-ago days of the New Deal.

There is about it a savage quality. There, we seem to say, we've found the culprit, the cause of all our troubles, and now let's run him to earth.

Of course, this is an election year. That explains part of the noise, perhaps most of it. But there is one special fact about the current barrage in the press and on the radio that deserves notice.

Some of the most savage and sneering attacks come from the same sources that pilloried Roosevelt. Yet the attacks on Truman have a different angle. The attackers do not accuse him, as they did Roosevelt, of being a strong man, an ambitious man bent on dictatorship. Quite on the contrary, they attack him because he has not been strong enough, because he has not asserted himself.

That should make us, as Americans, do a little thinking. We should start thinking not of individuals, weak or strong, but of the system of government under which we live.

It is a government of divided powers which was designed to hold together a loose federation of agricultural states, with a minimum of power reserved for the central authority. It was designed for an age in which the chief operating instruments were the human back, the horse and the wheel.

Let's see, for a moment, how this government has functioned during the year since the war ended. Perhaps the chief domestic crisis in that time has been the crisis over price control.

Here, as all the polls showed, a decided majority of the voters were in favor of retaining effective controls. That was President Truman's stand. By the votes of the Republican opposition and by the defection of members of his own party, he was defeated.

Under our constitution, Harry Truman is president for the next two years, short of an act which would precipitate the scandalous, disrupting process of impeachment.

How are we to behave during those two years? Are we to keep his head held through the hole in the canvas while we throw baseballs, cocoanuts, pop bottles and harder things at him?

That is a very dangerous sport to indulge in at a time when so much turns on the decisions taken by the United States.

Granted Truman's blunders in the Wallace affair and his mistakes again and again on other occasions. Yet he has done many courageous things.

He has dared to economize in an election year. He has backed Gen. Omar N. Bradley, an honest administrator, against the professional veterans' lobby.

The problems at the end of the war were so overwhelming, the conflicts so deep-rooted, that it is hard to see how any president could have avoided trouble. But it is time to stop counting on the genius, the strong man, who can fight his way through the intricacies of constitutional government. It is time to ask a question that may be THE question of our day:

Can we, as a great world power, afford a collapsible government?

Farmer's Diary: "Tests of Endurance."

WHERE do all wild things get their amazing energy? A single tireless cricket chirps for hours at a stretch. The monarch butterfly, on fickle wings, spans the distance of an ocean. A jack-rabbit, out in Kansas, raced ahead of our car—a Model T Ford—for miles along a level highway. Those long hind legs moved so rapidly and with such rhythm that it was dangerous for a driver to try to follow too closely with his eyes.

One evening before twilight I noticed a katydid, hidden beneath a broad slanting maple leaf. I heard his music start a few moments later. For three hours, while I sat nearby, in the warm moonlight of a September evening, he kept his instrument going with the same untiring sprightliness.

Beneath our porch roof a large spider had woven a web of many strands. It extended six inches or so below an outside rafter and was attached to the side of the house. Close by I counted three pipes of mud cemented also against the siding. At times I heard a buzzing thereabouts, and saw a mason wasp crawl out and fly away.

The other day at noon I heard a thumping sound, like something moving rapidly back and forth against two seasoned sticks of wood. The mason wasp was snarled in the spider's web—the spider watching fearfully from one dark secluded corner. The movements of the struggling wasp were so vigorous and it slammed itself so violently against the solid wood that I felt sure it would bruise its body and give up.

I left the porch for an hour or so, and forgot the battle, expecting that soon the wasp would cease to struggle and the spider would move in to finish the kill. But when I came back, the wasp was still pounding back and forth at a similar speed, and the spider had not dared to venture nearer.

I saw, too, that the web was wearing out. It sagged even as I watched and the burdened strands stretched looser. Then, one by one, the cables, like warped prison bars, gave way and finally the wasp flew out into the orchard, prouder and wiser than before.

Presently she returned, and carried the body of a living spider into her dry mud cell. I wondered if it was a vengeful choice of prey, or just coincidence. The original spider built his new web in another place.

Paul Makes a New Start

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 8:1-3, 9:1-19, 22:4-16, 26:9-18; I Corinthians 15:8-10; Galatians 1:11-16.

Paul, a Pharisee, stood by consenting while Stephen was stoned to death; and later he had Christians dragged from their homes and sent to prison.

Paul, "breathing out threatenings and slaughter," started for Damascus, but a great light shone and a voice said, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

In Damascus the Lord came to Ananias, a devout Christian, and told him to go to the street called Straight where he would find Paul who had become blind.

Ananias went to Paul and, putting his hands on him, straightway Paul recovered his sight and was baptized. MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 122:1.

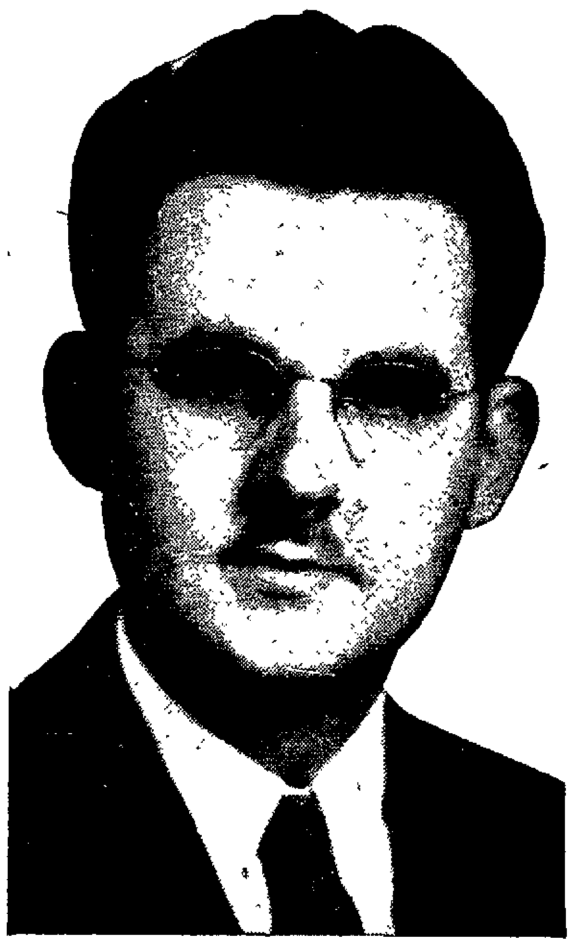
THE COMING WAR OF ARMAGEDDON

GENERAL DOUGLAS MacARTHUR SAID:
"Men since the beginning of time have sought peace. Various methods through the ages have attempted to devise an international process to prevent or settle disputes between nations. . . . Military alliances, balance of power, League of Nations, all in turn failed, leaving the only path to be by way of crucible war . . . We have had our last chance. If we don't now devise some greater and more equitable system, ARMAGEDDON WILL BE AT OUR DOOR."
MacARTHUR'S FINAL SPEECH AT JAPAN'S SURRENDER, SEPT. 2, 1945.



S. K. Lehnhoff will tell about the universal way as prophesied in the Bible. Where it will be fought. When it will come. Who will win. This battle decides the fate of the world for one thousand years. The coming bombardment from the air that will flatten every city. The superman who will rule the entire world after the final and bloodiest of all battles.

Mansfield Overpowers Springfield, 33-0

By FRED THARP
News-Journal Sports Editor

SPRINGFIELD—Mansfield Tyger pigskin performers went on a scoring rampage here last night to hand a stubborn Springfield high school grid aggregation its worst defeat of the 1946 season, 33 to 0.

The slick gridiron failed to hamper the potent running attack unleashed by Coach Paul Snyder's undefeated machine and the Bengal backs ripped through huge holes in the Wildcat forward wall to amass a total of 311 yards on the ground. In addition to their offensive blocking prowess, the stalwart Tyger linesmen gave the Springfield backs a rough evening and held them to 86 yards.

More than 5,500 fans, including a large Mansfield cheering section, watched the Tygers roll to their fifth straight victory. Lima Central, another of Ohio's better clubs, had polished off Springfield, 32-0, for the Cats previous high-deficit total.

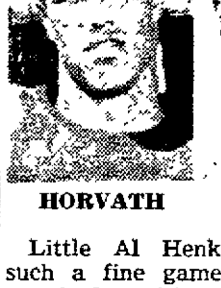
Kenny Horvath and Ralph Majors, the big-yardage-guns of the Red and White eleven, each gained more yards than the entire Springfield ball-toting assemblage. Horvath carried 17 times for 120 yards and Majors slashed his way to 111 yards in 18 attempts.

Horvath ran his 1946 touchdown total to 10 by striking pay-dirt three times while Ralph Majors and "Bullet Bill" McKee each picked up a single tally. The latter brace of performers turned in the top single-feature of the game.

With star passer and ball handler Ollie Cline, taking a momentary rest on the bunch, Majors took the role of passer for the first time this season on the last scrimmage play of the game. A 15-yard penalty had forced the Tygers back to their own 20.

Majors rifled an aerial to McKee, district 100 and 220-yard dash champion, on the 27 and the "Bullet" took off. He did some fancy dodging and high speed work to go the remaining 73 yards for a TD. It was the Tygers longest touchdown play of a high-scoring season.

At times Springfield exhibited a pretty fair defense but the Wildcats did not have very much in the way of offense, passing or running. They tried only two aerials and the Bengals flagged one to run their interception total to 12 for the season.



HORVATH

MAJORS

Little Al Henke, who plays such a fine game at the right terminal position, again turned in many defensive gems for the Bengals. Tom Emerson, 1945 letterman, made his first '46 appearance last night and turned in a fine job as relief center for Dave Wentz. The well-built senior has been bothered by a bad knee but a rugged brace that arrived late this week allowed him to play last night.

Mansfield showed plenty of proof why it is rated the state's No. 3 scholastic eleven (they might be No. 2 next week, what with Toledo Waite losing an 8-6 decision to Toledo Libbey in the mud last night). The Snydermen scored the first two times they gained possession of the oval.

Ollie Cline returned a Jack Phillips punt six yards to the Cat 34 to set the stage for the opening TD. Horvath raced 10 yards on a T-sweep and Cline picked up two on a sneak. Horvath made 18 yards in two plays but a 15-yard penalty set the Tygers back to the 30.

Majors went for nine on a spinner and Cline went 16 on a fake spin and drive to the five. Majors scored on the following play and Ross Frisbee converted his 12th straight.

Two plays after the following kickoff, Cline grabbed a Snyder pass at mid-field and fought his way to the 20. Majors and Horvath alternated to go for a first down on the six. Cline went off-tackle to the two and Majors was stopped for no-gain. Horvath then blasted off-guard for the counter and Frisbee missed the conversion.

Big Ross had "3 for 4" last night to run his season's total to 15 of 17 attempted placements.

The second stanza was mighty quiet but the Tygers put their offensive might on display again to open the third chapter. Jim Sinerson returned the kick-off 22 yards to the 40. Majors bolted to the mid-field stripe and Horvath went through center for 15.

Horvath drove to the 28 and on two spinners Majors got to the four. He picked up one and Horvath blasted to the one-foot line. He scored on the next play and Frisbee converted.

The fourth TD drive got under way late in the third chukker on the Tyger five. It took 19 plays to go the route with Horvath picking up the final 16 on a plunge and cut-back in the secondary. Four five-yard penalties slowed the march. Once McKee sliced away for 40 yards only to have the play nullified by an in-motion infraction.

Mansfield rolled to 14 first downs to three for the home club.

A fireworks display featured the pre-game ceremonies. The Wildcat pyrotechnic experts fired many aerial bombs and exhibited three display signs. The first was "Welcome," second came "Hello Tygers" in Red and White Mansfield colors and the last fireworks display said "Go Wildcats."

Bellville Tops Danville, 20-0

DANVILLE—Coach Orville Kibler's Bellville Blue Jays defeated Danville here yesterday afternoon 20 to 0, on a muddy fleid.

Bill Smith, Bellville sophomore scored the first touchdown in the opening minutes of the game after Dave Worner ran 50 yards on an off-tackle smash.

The other two touchdowns culminated drives of 60 and 70 yards. Don Walker and Homer Walker smashed through center for the scores.

Danville's only threat came in the fourth quarter as they drove to the Blue Jays 25-yard line. Bellville repeatedly broke through the line and threw Danville for losses.

Bellville had 14 first downs to Danville's three.

Joe Dobson, Red Sox Defeat Cards, 6-3

BOSTON IN FRONT BY ONE CONTEST

By LEO H. PETERSEN, UP Sports Editor.

ABOARD WORLD SERIES SPECIAL, En Route to St. Louis—Joe Cronin, his Boston Red Sox out in front three games to two, indicated strongly today that he was going with the southpaw slants of Mickey Harris in the sixth game of the world series tomorrow while Manager Eddie Dyer of the Cardinals named Harry (The Cat) Brecheen to pitch for St. Louis.

Boston defeated St. Louis yesterday, 6 to 3.

"It will be Harris or Dave Ferriss," Cronin said as his club left Fenway park for the banks of the Mississippi, but he tipped his hand several times later when he always named Harris first.

Dyer, his 49th birthday a sad affair, was definite about Brecheen as his club sped by train toward Sportsman's park. "I don't know who my pitcher will be for the seventh game," he said, "but I do know there is going to be a seventh game."

He was counting on Brecheen to come through again tomorrow as he did in the second game Monday when he set down the American league champions on four scattered hits to win 3 to 0.

Should Brecheen falter there would not be a seventh game. If there is it will be played at St. Louis, site of the first two games, on Tuesday, Monday being held open for ticket sales, just as today was an off day to enable the teams to change cities.

For most of the Red Sox an open date for traveling was not necessary as all the club except eight players flew to St. Louis last night after the Red Sox had beaten the Cardinals 6 to 3 to gain a one game advantage. All but those eight arrived last night.

Riding the rails along with the entire Cardinal club were Boston Pitchers Tex Hughson, Jim Bagby, Bill Zuber and Charley Wagner, Catcher Hal Wagner, Second Baseman Bobby Doerr, whose migraine headache kept him out of yesterday's game, Don Gutteridge who took Doerr's place and was a key man in that fifth game triumph, and reserve Third Baseman Glenn (Rip) Russell.

While Dyer was definite about Brecheen, Cronin refused to be pinned down on his sixth game hurler. Celebrating his 40th birthday—and he didn't want any better present than his club gave him yesterday, even if it was a day early—he just kept saying "Harris of Ferriss."

For the fifth game he had kept saying "Dobson or Harris" and husky Joe got the call and responded with a four hitter that would have resulted in a shutout except for three errors, two of them by Johnny Pesky, leading to the three unearned Cardinal runs.

But because Sportsman's park favors left handed pitchers, Harris, who lost the second game to Brecheen although he pitched good ball, was expected to get the nod. That would give Ferriss, the 4 to 0 winner of the third game, an additional two days' rest in event the seventh contest is necessary.

"Either way," Joe said, "we expect to wind it up. I'm not even thinking about a seventh game."

But should the series go the limit as it did last year when the Detroit Tigers beat the Chicago Cubs it looked like it would be Murry Dickson for the Cards and either Ferriss, if he doesn't go in the tomorrow's game, or Tex Hughson for the Bo-Sox.

By winning the fifth game, the Red Sox became the favorites to win the series, just as they were when the classic started. The Cards found themselves in the favorites' role for only 24 hours, taking over as choices when they won that baseball history-making fourth game, 12 to 3. But they soon slipped back to the status of underdogs after Dobson got through with them yesterday.

The 29-year-old former sergeant, whose sinking curve and fast balls had gained him 14 victories against only six defeats this season, suddenly regained the effectiveness he displayed during the early part of the American league pennant race when Cronin picked him over Harris for the fifth game.

For he stilled those Cardinal bats, which only the day before had rattled 20 hits to tie a series record for most blows in one game with four meager hits and would have coasted except for the faulty fielding of his mates. But he even was good enough to overcome those miscues with his sinking stuff cooling off those red-hot bats of the Redbirds.

Hand Loudonville First Loss In Homecoming Game, 19 to 0

By BRUCE M'GINTY

Mansfield Madison rolled over a powerful Loudonville eleven 19 to 0, last night, before 3,500 rain-swept football fans to make the Rams' annual homecoming classic a complete success. It was Loudonville's first loss in five games.

After a brutal first half which kept the Rams inside their own 30 most of the time, Madison started gaining ground the first time they took the ball the second half and drove 51 yards for a score.

Herbie Eldridge picked up 37 of the 51 yards on off-tackle smashes and end runs before bolting over the line from the one-yard stripe. Dick Ernsberger converted the extra point and the Rams were on the way to their second Northeastern Buckeye league victory in as many weeks.

Ed Thomas, Madison end, set up the next TD as he recovered a Loudonville fumble for the first play after the kick-off on the Red Birds 42.

Jack Herr went off tackle for five, and Ernsberger plowed over center for eight yards, making it first down on the Loudonville 29. Eldridge tucked the pigskin under his arm and smashed off tackle 16 yards.

Ernsberger and Herr picked up five yards each and it was first down and goal to go on the three. Then Ernsberger scored the second touchdown on a quarterback sneak and the score was 13 to 0, in favor of the Rams. The attemped conversion missed by inches.

Late in the fourth quarter Herr quick-kicked from the Rams' 35 and caught the whole Loudonville team off guard. Madison's two ends, Thomas and Eldon Pritchard, were down under the play and tackled Bill Porter on the Loudonville three before he could advance a yard. Herr's kick was good for 62 yards.

On the second play Herr intercepted a Loudonville aerial and returned 30 yards for the Rams' final touchdown.

In the first half Madison developed a bad case of "fumbleitis" but Loudonville could not take advantage of its opportunity to score as the Rams played their tightest and best defensive game of the season.

The Red Birds missed three attempts to score when Madison's forward wall stiffened and held the Red Birds on the one, eight and 12 yard lines.

Chuck Campbell was injured early in the game but should be ready for action by next Friday afternoon when the Rams play Doylestown away from home.

The Rams led the Red Birds in first downs 11 to 10.

The homecoming ceremonies were not marred by the rain-soaked field and Queen Donna Beer and her four attendants, Lucille Berry, Joy Sauder, Betty Harris and Barbara Keipp, made their entrance as scheduled and the ceremonies went on regardless of a few rain drops.

Corsages were given to the drum majorettes and cheerleaders through courtesy of the Thomas Music Shop.

This marks the 10th consecutive year that Sisler, former manager of the St Louis Browns, has held the post.

Babe After Sixth

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, seeking her sixth tournament victory of the year, was favored to defeat Betty Hicks in the final match of the Texas women's open golf tournament today.

BATS IN FIRST RUN: Ted Williams, star batsman of the Boston Red Sox, is shown above smashing a single to left field, driving in Pesky (seen racing from second to third) to score the first run of Boston's 6-3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals in the fifth game of the world series played in Fenway park, Boston.

Ky Laffoon, Buck White Lead Montgomery Open

MONTGOMERY, Ala.— (U.P.) — The $10,000 Montgomery open moved into the third round today with almost a third of the field, led by Ky Laffoon and O'Neal (Buck) White, far under par figures.

White, Greenwood, Miss., ex-GI, and Laffoon, Orlando, Fla., golf veteran, were tied at 131 for the first 36 holes—13 under par.

Cleveland Trades Reynolds For Joe Gordon of Yankees

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK—(AP)—The long-expected shakeup in the ranks of the New York Yankees, once the scourge of the baseball world, has started in earnest.

In a surprise announcement at midnight the Yankees announced they had traded Joe "Flash" Gordon star second baseman, to the Cleveland Indians for Allie Reynolds, a 27-year-old righthanded pitcher who won 11 games and lost 15 the past season

The Yanks also sent Joe Edward Bockman, a rookie third sacker to the Indians for an undisclosed amount of cash and players to be announced later. Bockman trained with the Yanks in Panama last spring before being shifted to the club's Kansas City farm in the American association.

The deal, apparently made by Larry MacPhail president of the Yanks, and Bill Veeck, president of the Indians, at the world series in Boston, follows the unexpected resignation of Bill Dickey as manager in the closing days of the season. Dickey had succeeded Joe McCarthy at the helm in May.

Speculation on other Yankee trades has long existed. One rumor is that Centerfielder Joe DiMaggio has been offered to the Red Sox in a trade for Ted Williams. MacPhail has made no official comment on that. Neither has he indicated who will succeed Dickey. Coach Johnny Neun finished out the season as manager.

In Reynolds the Yanks have obtained a pitcher known as a "fireballer." A native of Bethany, Okla., he came up to Cleveland from Wilkes-Barre Pa., of the Eastern league in 1943 and in his first season led the American league in strikeouts with 151.

His major league career, including this season shows 51 victories against 47 defeats. During 1946 he appeared in 31 games, pitched 174 innings, yielded 181 hits and hurled three shutouts He fanned 106 and walked 107. His best year was 1945 when he won 18 and lost 12 with an earned run average of 3 13

Gordon, who entered the armed service after the 1943 world series when his sparkling play helped the Yanks whip the St Louis Cardinals, had the worst season of his major league career during 1946 He batted only .210, although driving in 48 runs.

His lifetime major league batting average (before 1946) was 278 and he had his best season mark of 322 in 1942 He is a native of Los Angeles and will be 32 in February.

Mt. Gilead Indians Tie Richwood 11

MT. GILEAD—Mt. Gilead and Richwood battled to an 18 to 18 tie here last night in a muddy Mid-State league contest.

Smith, of Richwood set off the scoring when he ran 35 yards on an off tackle smash. In the second quarter Smith went off tackle 42 yards for another TD. In the final quarter it was Smith again who tossed an aerial to Wiley for the final Richwood score.

The Indians scoring came after Nelson Campbell heaved a 30-yard pass to John Tennant who raced to the 1-yard line before being tackled from the rear. N. Campbell then smashed off tackle for the first marker.

Approve Big 9 Bowl Plan

CHICAGO —(AP)— A 5-4 majority vote approving the Western conference's tieup with the Pacific Coast conference in a five-year plan for representation in the Rose Bowl was indicated today, but there was no official vote announced.

Although Illinois' faculty senate has disapproved the agreement in the only definite action announced thus far, Ohio State, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa have unofficially voiced their approval with Wisconsin showing indications of joining the affirmative side to make the required majority.

Northwestern was considered on the "borderline" with its faculty committee scheduled to meet early next week for a decision. Purdue and Minnesota were expected to join Illinois on the negative side although their faculty men have yet to meet to vote on the matter.

At Wisconsin, football Coach Harry Stuhldreher indicated he would recommend to the athletic board acceptance of the plan. He said "there is a lot of merit in Western conference participation in Rose Bowl games."

The five-year plan would pit a Big Nine team against the Pacific Coast conference representative for three successive years and approve "outsiders" for the next two years, with southern teams excluded.

Miami Seahawks Win First Clash

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Miami Seahawks have finally edged into victory column after five starts in all-American conference football.

The Seahawks did it the hard way, scoring a field goal with only one minute and 45 seconds of play remaining in their game at Buffalo last night to edge the Bisons, 17-14.

In the conference debut at Brooklyn, the Dodgers battled to a 21-21 tie with the surging Chicago Rockets before 16,211 fans at Ebbets iFeld.

Tonight's schedule: Cleveland at New York; San Francisco at Los Angeles.

Big Ashland 11 Tops Shelby In Non-League Battle, 18-0

ASHLAND—A heavy Ashland eleven upset the Shelby Whippets, Northern Ohio league leaders, 18 to 0, here Friday night in a non-league football game before 3,500 fans.

Fullback Bill Kaiser, blocking back, and Kenny Alberts, first string guard, were out of the Shelby starting line-up.

The A's scored in the second period after a 43-yard drive. Harpster lateralled to Fierbaugh on the Shelby eight-yard line for the touchdown. Hurst fumbled the ball and Shelby recovered on the try for the extra point.

Shelby's best chance to score came shortly after the second half started. Dick Seitz recovered an Ashland fumble on the A's 25-yard line. A pass from Jim Reed to Seitz carried the ball to the nine-yard strip. Successive runs by Jim Dick, Bill Thompson and Stanton Jones, carried the ball to the one-yard line where an attempted pass from Reed to Seitz failed and Ashland took over the ball. In the same period, the Whippets carried the ball to the A's 34 and 28-yard lines, but failed to have the punch to put it across the goal line.

Ashland scored in the early part of the fourth quarter when Fierbaugh raced 21 yards to cross the goal line standing up. Johns fumbled the ball on the try for extra point and Shelby recovered. Ashland, 12, Shelby, 0.

Fierbaugh set the stage for Ashland's final touchdown by racing 21 yards to the Shelby's one yard strip where Glasser carried the ball over. Hurst's kick failed to go between the uprights giving Ashland the lead, 18 to 0.

The A's made 11 first downs to seven for the Whippets. It was the first time that Coach A. Fendrick's eleven has been held scoreless this year and its second defeat in five games. It was the fourth win out of five games for Ashland.

The Whippets hold first place in the Northern Ohio league with three consecutive victories and no defeats in league competition.

Ashland travels to Wooster next Friday night, while Shelby entertains Bellevue in a league game.

WHEN COUSINS DIFFER

Food will frequently decide
What folks do and where reside.
—Old Mother Nature.

Eating is important. Of course. Every one knows that. To live we must eat, so in a way it is the most important thing we do. Food, what we eat and how we eat it, not only decides for us if we shall be strong and healthy, but often decides what we shall do and where and how we shall live.

Peter Rabbit learned how this can be from the Swallow cousins. Forktail the Barn Swallow had left for the Sunny South while his cousin, Skimmer the Tree Swallow, was still around and appeared in no hurry to go. Peter couldn't understand why. If Forktail felt it necessary to start early why didn't Skimmer feel the same way?

"For one thing my cousin goes farther south than I do, but it is mostly a matter of food," explained Skimmer.

"But you eat the same kind of food. You both live on insects. Isn't that true?" said Peter.

"Partly true. Only partly true," replied Skimmer.

"What do you mean by partly true?" demanded Peter.

Skimmer was perched on a twig. Beside him was a cluster of the small bluish berries of a climbing vine called the woodbine or Virginia creeper that was clinging to the tree in which he sat. He reached over and picked one of the berries and ate it. Peter didn't notice this although looking straight at him.

"Cousin Forktail lives almost wholly on insects," said Skimmer.

"Well, don't you?" asked Peter.

Skimmer's bright eyes twinkled as he swallowed another berry. "I eat a lot of them, but I don't depend on them as Forktail does. I've learned better than to depend on one kind of food. So if I should wake up some morning and find that Jack Frost has arrived and there are no flying insects for me to catch it won't matter," said he, and reached for another berry.

Peter thought this over for a minute, scratching a long ear with a long hind foot to help him think. "Does that mean that you eat things that Jack Frost can't hurt?" he ventured.

"How did you guess it?" teased Skimmer.

"What things?" demanded Peter. Then his eyes opened wide as for the first time he noticed what Skimmer was doing. "Don't tell me you eat berries!" he cried.

"Is there any good reason why I shouldn't?" asked the Swallow.

Peter had to confess he couldn't think of any. "Do you eat any other kinds of berries?" he asked.

Skimmer nodded. "Some, especially kinds that Jack Frost doesn't spoil," said he.

"Anything else?" Peter wanted to know.

"Grass seeds and a few other seeds help out sometimes," Skimmer admitted.

"So that is how you can stay longer than your cousins can! And I had supposed that all Swallows ate the same things," said Peter.

"They do eat some of the same things but not all of the same things. Cousin Forktail the Barn Swallow does eat some Spiders and Snails but he depends on insects, mostly the kind he can catch in the air. We Tree Swallows help out a shortage of insect food with berries and seeds, so if we want to we can stay until the weather is too cold for comfort. Then we move toward the Sunny South in easy stages," explained Skimmer.

"You said that Forktail goes farther than you do. How far does he go?" Peter wanted to know.

"Way, way down where it is summer all the time," replied Skimmer. He meant South America. "Some of us go down where the weather is always warm, but not as far as Forktail goes. And sometimes some of us don't go very far south at all," he added.

BROTHERS PUT ON PROBATION

Boys, 7 and 9, Found With $77 Stolen From City Firm.

Two North Diamond street brothers, 7 and 9 years old, accused of stealing $77 in cash from a machine shop, were placed on probation to their mother yesterday by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer.

Police said that when the boys were picked up the seven-year-old had $65 of the $77 taken from the Reindl Spring and Alignment service, North Franklin avenue. The rest was in possession of the nine-year-old.

J. C. Reindl told officers that the money was in a shirt which was in the washroom. Shortly after the brothers had used the washroom Reindl said he discovered the money was gone.

Officers found the two about an hour after the theft.

FOUND DEAD

John McDonough Stricken on Orange Street.

John McDonough, Eighth avenue, was found dead at Eighth avenue and Orange street this morning, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson reported.

Coroner D. C. Lavender said death apparently was due to natural causes. There was no indication of violence, he said.

The body was removed to the Wolford funeral home pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Clinic Fails To Show New TB Case

Of the 47 new patients examined at the city-county tuberculosis clinic Thursday not a single positive case was revealed by the x-ray photos, Dr. W. B. Wild reported yesterday.

In addition to the new patients, 27 re-check patients were examined and among those three positive cases showed up, Wild said.

Two of these had been known to the health department previously and only one could be classed as a new case discovered in Thursday's clinic, Dr. Wild said.

MAR AUTO PAINT

Robert Dirlam, 492 Forest Hill road, told police that vandals ruined the paint on his car yesterday by "rubbing it with gravel." He said the auto was in a parking lot at the rear of a North Mulberry street shop.

Surviving, besides the parents, are two brothers, Michael Lee and Garry Estill, both at home; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Estill Hill of West Liberty, Ky.; the maternal grandfather, Vernon Dudley of Columbus, and the great-grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Hill, also of West Liberty.

Lawyers Back Levy Proposals

The proposed 3-mill levy for educational purposes and the 2-mill recreational levy won endorsement by members of the Richland County Bar association at its luncheon meeting yesterday in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Robert Pumphrey, Mansfield area FBI agent, delivering the principal address, said the FBI is looking for 1,000 new agents because of the heavy burden placed upon it since the conclusion of the war and the retirement of many of its former agents.

Pumphrey outlined the history of the FBI from its inception in 1908. He described the training period, the work done by agents, and the requirements that a man be between 25 and 40, a college graduate, and of respectable character.

Marion Ward, program chairman, introduced Bill Calhoun, a former FBI agent, who in turn introduced the speaker.
